

HSI
Heater Specialists, LLC

Energy Equipment Manufacturing

Project Management

HSI is a fully integrated single source manufacturer of refractory lined vessels and equipment for the oil refining, chemical process, power generation and incineration industries. Our unique turnkey approach to manufacturing gives HSI project management personnel complete control over every aspect of a project. This eliminates inherent scheduling, quality control and manufacturing problems associated with using several different subcontractors.

This fully integrated approach simplifies project execution by eliminating conflict and delays associated with managing multiple sub-vendors. Efficiencies gained in manufacturing are passed along to customers in the form of lower prices and more reliable deliveries. Scheduling is greatly simplified since the entire project scope is controlled by a single company and a single project manager.